

Marco the Mouse Detective

Hi, I am Marco the Mouse Detective. Last week I had a tough case. Two moles named Spike and Sparky were on the loose and they were stealing all the cheese and taking it for themselves. I'll tell you about it. So, one day my telephone rang. Mr. Bert, the cheese man, called me. He said to hurry so I took my motorcycle. I jumped off and ran inside. Mr. Bert told me he had been robbed and that the two moles were headed for the train station. So I jumped back on my motorcycle and rode there. It was too late; the train had started and they were getting away. I saw them through a window so I rode to the closest bridge the train came by. I was scared but all I could do was jump! I landed and I was surprised I was still in one piece. I was on top of a train with two thieves.

While I dodged signs I walked to the caboose. When got to the caboose, I held on to the end and climbed down and went inside. I saw Spike, but not Sparky, so I walked up and handcuffed him and in his briefcase was half of the stolen cheese. I looked around the train and Sparky was nowhere to be seen. I got a call that Sparky had been seen at the airport so I brought Spike to the police and went to the airport. They checked their system and the manager said he was going to France. So I got on the next plane to France.

While I was on the plane I heard the pilot say we had to make a crash landing in the ocean. I was scared. A few minutes later CRASH, we hit the ocean. We got the life jackets and rafts. Half an hour later a helicopter picked us up. I was the first on the helicopter. So we went to France in a helicopter. An hour later we landed. I heard that last Sparky had been seen was going into a deli shop's freezer.

I made my way to the deli and snuck in the back and got in the freezer. Then I saw something. It looked like a temperature thing. It was a combination. Then I saw a little piece of paper with 227774307 written on it. I tried putting that in the combination and the door opened. I walked inside then I saw someone. I jumped behind a cylinder table. It was Sparky and his boss, Crusher.

I heard something like powering a mechanism to help them rule the world. Then I snuck into a laboratory where they had kidnapped citizens to test a poison on. They put poison in the cheese they stole and forced them to eat it and it made the people work for them. Then I saw something else. It was huge vehicle to help them catch citizens. When I turned around someone grabbed me and threw me in a barrel.

So I had just been thrown into a barrel and while I was being rolled I remembered I had a knife, so I cut open the barrel without them knowing. I slipped away and secretly called reinforcements. Now it was time to start placing secret bombs. I placed them everywhere (even in the toilet.) So my reinforcement came and freed the citizens and gave them a drink to help them snap out of the hypnosis. They arrested the moles, and I blew up the fortress along with the deli shop. Because the deli sold the poison cheese.
